WHY SHOULD MY ORGANIZATION PARTICIPATE?

Your organization is entrusted with the task of achieving your objectives efficiently while managing stakeholder's assets. Myriad uncertainties stand between threats and opportunities which may affect your objectives. This course enables key decision-makers to design and implement a robust risk management framework along with a concurrent set of processes which will support your strategic, managerial and operational objectives.

Core competencies such as risk identification, analysis and evaluation, establishment of context and communication and consultation are explored in depth vis-à-vis their relationship to the management of risk.

Every organization, its management and its individual decision-makers are subject to the dangers of emotional rather than rational thinking, group-think and "shoot from the hip" decisions. While all organizations manage risk to some degree, this program establishes principles, a framework and processes whose purpose is to integrate informed, organized and structured decision-making into the organization's overall governance, strategy, management, reporting, processes, values and culture.

WHAT IS MY ROI ON THIS COURSE?

ASTD has calculated the ROI for employee training as: 37% higher gross profit/employee trained. Your return on investment for this course depends on the following factors, which are unique to your organization:

- How great is your need to focus your employees on organizational objectives?
- What is the potential downside of a poor decision made strategically, managerially and operationally?
- What is the potential upside of a good decision made strategically, managerially and operationally?
